

First use

We recommend downloading the App Store version for the best experience, easier updates, and improved security assurance. If you need a portable version, you can continue using this version, but please note the following.

Download from the Internet warning

When you open FastFileLink.app for the first time after downloading it from the Internet, macOS may show a dialog.

This is a normal macOS security feature called Gatekeeper. It appears whenever you launch an application that was downloaded outside of the Mac App Store for the first time. As long as you downloaded FastFileLink.app from our official website, you can safely click Open to continue. After the first launch, macOS will remember your choice and you will not see this warning again.
